Where Man Camped in Haliburton 5,000 Years Ago

Eight thousand years ago an ancient race of people are believed to have camped at Farguhar lake in a critical position from which they could have easily been driven from the area. The secret of their life to this area was known to be in a Toronto hospital. It is the above modern man became aware of it. In the above

The graves in the rocks along the westerly shore of Farguhar lake may yield more information concerning the ancient people who camped there an estimated 5,000 years ago. That is the opinion of Messrs Jack Mangin, Monmouth Township, on whose property evidence of the early visitors to Haliburton County was found. Mr. Mangin is convinced that if the effort was made, it is quite possible the remains of some members of this tribe would be found buried in the crevices of the rocks which form Farguhar lake's shoreline. He told the Post during a recent visit to the site of the remarkable discovery that it was the practice of time early people to bury their dead in the crevices of rocks and cover them with earth for the simple reason that they had no tools for digging.

Before Mr. Mangin informed authorities of his find, he had accumulated about 38 pieces of flint and copper, as well as bone, beads, fish spines, walrus and seal teeth. Following his disclosure, a party headed by Fred Burrows of Toronto moved in and systematically excavated the site, uncovering 50 pieces of equipment belonging to the early race. More recent searches have been made in the area.

In the spring of this, Mr. Mangin is not convinced that the find has been worked out. On the contrary he believes that further strikes may be made in the area if proper attention is given.

One of the surprising things about a visit to the Farguhar lake archeological "excavation" is the village which Mr. and Mrs. Mangin excavated there. There is some evidence of the presence of the village which one might expect to prevail in the crevices of the rocks. The discovery, they welcome visitors, and to considerable trouble, has been made. They even encouraged the public to visit the site.

It is all just very primitive Christmas for a 50-year-old Canadian man who has dug up $85.50. He has been given a total of $70 and ordered to pay out of $13.50 as a result of two convictions in the Landy Police Court. It is difficult to be so kind to a man who has been so kind to the public.

PROBABLY IT'S THE PUBLIC'S OWN FAULT

A few weeks ago we called attention to the lack of provisions made for the public who like to picnic around the shores of Lake in this district. The opinion was expressed that more provision should have been made for these people so that even though they could not afford a summer home by the water, they could at least enjoy a lakeland outing when they felt like it. This belief has been severely shaken as a result of a visit to a picnic spot from here which offers every facility to the travelling public wishing to picnic by the water's edge.

Over at Horsham Falls there is an ideal picnic spot. The scenery is particularly beautiful and there is lots of room for all comers but, judging from the litter which had accumulated after a season's use by the public, the privilege is not fully appreciated and certainly not respected. Bottles were seen smashed to pieces on the exposed rock surfaces or dropped down between crevices which were also the favorite dumping ground for straw, paper napkins, and various tissues, straws, orange peel, and so forth, were everywhere but in the large container placed conveniently for disposal of such things.

After contemplating the situation for a time, we were forced to conclude that probably it is the public's own fault for they have better looked after in the matter of providing picnic spots bordering on many of this district's beautiful resort areas.

Others Say

THE RUSSIANS NOW BELIEVE IT

Adolf Hitler disappeared from the face of the earth in the German collapse at the end of April or the first of May, 1945. The Germans said he had committed suicide and was dead. The British and Americans investigated the scene under and above ground after Berlin was occupied, and established by analysis and deduction from facts and circumstances that he was indeed dead and not hiding in some Bavarian retreat. But the Russians refused to be convinced. On various occasions they expressed doubts as to the Fuhrer's suicide. Now they have changed their minds. The seventh volume of the Soviet Encyclopedia, just published, contains the following entry: "Fearing the righteous wrath of the people, Hitler committed suicide on May 1, 1945, as stated in the communique issued by the High Command."

Now it may be the American turn to doubt the evidence. What is the hidden reason for Russia changing her official view of the fallen Hitler, disguised as a German corporal and sent into East Germany to assist in the Red re-armament there?

That Body of Yours

By James W. Burton, M.D.

Methods of Artificial Respiration

In my early school days I was taught a method of resuscitation of the near dead known as the Ryer method. In this method, the patient is placed on his back. The operator kneels at the head and grasps arms just above wrists. His arms are then raised, he leans back to the ground over the victim's head. Arms are then released on chest with forward thrust and pressure downward is applied.

The Shaffer method has been in use for a great many years and is still used in the majority of cases. The patient lies on his abdomen. The operator kneels under the victim's legs, he then leans forward, nipping gradually pressure downward with his hands on flanking the forcing the abdominal organs out of the way so that the diaphragm (floor of chest) will thus give more room for chest to draw in air as the operator releases the pressure. Pressure and release occur about 4 times to the minute.

The Shaffer method much in use in Europe, is the Ryer method, in which the patient is placed on his back on a board and board on a fulcrum and a lever—over the head of the patient. The down movement sends air against the chest and drives out air. Then the up movement allows air to flow into the lungs. This method is the Ryer method.

While the Shaffer method is still the most popular, the arm-tilt back pressure method has much to recommend it.

3 The Drop Shot: Flayed close to the table, it is a very deceptive shot. It is a control which brings the ball to the table, but the player who sets one performer does the other, in the ability to keep the ball in the air, to keep the ball in the air, to keep the ball in the air.

Yes, it's control that counts in table tennis as in all sports - control which brings the ball to the table, but the player who sets one performer does the other, in the ability to keep the ball in the air, to keep the ball in the air, to keep the ball in the air.

UNFIT TO HANDLE FIREARMS?

It is about as easy to obtain a license to carry a firearm and go hunting as it is to take a drink of water, the only difference being that the license costs more. But it is one thing to be licensed to carry a gun and go hunting and another thing to be qualified to do so. The opening of the duck and partridge season in Ontario at the weekend has brought to our attention that many who were licensed to hunt were not skilled in the handling of firearms.

In view of the tragedies which attend almost every hunting season, it is not surprising that ways and means should be sought to educate sportsmen in the proper handling of firearms and good hunting practices. Licensing an individual to carry a gun or hunt does not simply lay the process of extracting a dollar or two from them without any regard to their knowledge of firearms or hunting. Before a license is issued, it should be made to determine the fitness of the applicant, otherwise of what benefit is the procedure of licensing except as a source of revenue and statistical information.

IT IS TO BE HOPED THEY WILL

The decision of the Dominion Government to lower its support prices on beef and pork is being taken as an indication that the consumer may soon be able to pay less for these products. It is to be hoped that such will be the case.

The consuming public has become skeptical of such announcements and the producer has been taken down as an indication that the consumer may soon be able to pay less for these products. It is to be hoped that such will be the case.

The consuming public has become skeptical of such announcements and the producer has been taken down as an indication that the consumer may soon be able to pay less for these products. It is to be hoped that such will be the case.

A reduction in the price of meat should not necessarily be disastrous to the producer or the consumer. On the contrary, it should enable more people to enjoy more of this essential food. This being the case a reduced price should stimulate consumption and the result would be a demand for increased production. The net result should be no less in income for those engaged in meat handling although it probably will mean more work for each producer.

The present high prices of most meats have made all but the cheapest cuts almost inaccessible to people of modest means. It is time that greater production of reduced cost was adopted by the meat producing industry.

THERE IS ROOM FOR A GREAT DEAL OF IMPROVEMENT

This district, which includes the counties of Durham, Northumberland, Victoria, Peterborough and Haliburton Counties, is in the upper brackets insofar as motor car accidents are concerned. It is among the eight districts in the Province of Ontario which recorded increased accident percentages above the provincial average in comparison with last year. From January to June there was an increase of 124 percent in the number of motor car accidents occurring in these counties over the same period in 1952. 745 accidents happened in the same period of 1953 as against 613 in 1952. This increase was 23.8 per cent higher than the increase for the entire province which stands at 16.1 per cent.

This record is not one of which any district might be proud. It is a record which calls for serious self-examination on the part of everyone who drives. . . It is a record which indicates more than anything else a need for greater care on the highways. And, finally, it is a record which has not necessarily been entirely established by the motorists who live within the district concerned.

There is only one way this record can be removed from the slate and that is by more careful driving on a province-wide basis. No other solution presents itself now or likely is in the future. Motor vehicles can only do what their drivers make them except on those rather infrequent occasions of mechanical failure when the driver is without power to direct their course.

WHY BOTHER TO REVERT?

One of the things which most puzzle a lot of people about Daylight Saving Time is why it is necessary to revert to Standard Time. The change causes a lot of confusion and the benefits, if any, aren't apparent to those who like their daylight at the right end of the day instead of the beginning.

When the end of Daylight Saving Time draws near people are constantly reminded that they are going to get back the hour which was taken away from them earlier in the season when they switched from Standard Time was made. Now this may be true up to a point but for many people it doesn't work out in terms of added sleep. The burst of daylight floods the hours and hour earlier but the light which causes many households to stir just that much sooner so that, in terms of sleep, that returning hour is lost along with a good many others from here in.

From here, it usually means that when it would have some real benefit. The month of October is a pleasant one and cool enough for people to want to get some work done outside. However, winter is just around the corner in which to do it after the evening most, so much has to go undone. Then again school children find the pleasant autumn evenings are not conducive to getting to bed early but, since it is too late to play outside, they remain cooped up in the house an hour longer than would otherwise be necessary.

Perhaps if the pros and cons of the situation were considered carefully, it might be seen that to compromise on the doubt at which the changeover is made each fall. No doubt the reluctance to part with the hour would be lessened if the switch-back was not made until after the nice weather had taken leave of this region . . . say around the end of October.

ELECTION EXPENSES A FARSE

It is with cynical amusement we read in the press after an election the so called official expense accounts of party candidates. For instance, there was one which listed the expense accounts of candidates in one of the recent federal by-elections which were recorded as follows: $7,139.79, $2,728.42 and $243.72. It is important in these observations, which candidate was material, in these observations, which candidate was elected, but from comments often heard from hard-boiled politicians and their cohorts "in the know" such figures as being "official" and "official" and "official" in the face of our boastful democratic principles. Let's tell the whole truth in such matters, or else send the Election Act and cut out this silly kind of waste of full cash of publishing a summary of election expenses.

Look at the case of Senator Nixon, U.S. Vice-President, who has just won over his campaign expense money. But we don't need to go that far field to see the many horrible examples of juggling election expenses. They are right in our own beloved Canadiana. —Canadian Statesman

REMEMBER SMOKEY SUNDAY?

On Sunday, Sept. 24, 1950—that's almost two years ago, St. Thomas, like other places in Western Ontario, was blanketed in a thick haze of what was called "smokey Sunday." Lights had to be turned on in the middle of the day and everything had the appearance of an evening in late dusk. There were many explanations of this phenomenon, but we are sure that they were all false. Some claimed that it was smoke clouds coming down from northern Alberta, where forest fires were raging, but this was discounted by reports from across the border. Even our weather experts were baffled.

Now comes a report from New York City that something similar happened there one day last week. It was at its worst in mid-town Manhattan, but was also noticeable in Brooklyn and at Newark airport. To the weather experts there, however, it was no mystery. They simply called it "smog."

The man in charge of the weather bureau explained that the ground air was cooler than the air in the upper atmosphere so that there was no vertical mixing of air. The result was that the air was virtually no wind in the morning, which is rare for that area, so there was no horizontal mixing. The result, according to the meteorologist, was that the air was virtually no wind in the morning, which is rare for that area, so there was no horizontal mixing. ## Loaded And How!

Sometimes the belt of friends must part . . . even when they're in the car.

John Hill and Howard Marshall were shooting craps in Detroit. Police broke in and arrested them both. The cops arrested Marshall and turned up 14 dice . . . all of them. Hill got pretty mad, but he was only accompanied with Marshall. Hill found 35 dice on Hill. All of them were loaded.

A 39-year-old Gurnee man, who pleaded guilty to an intoxication charge, a passenger in the car was sentenced until Wednesday for sentence. This man is charged with a second offense of driving a car into a plow, as charged by Attorney L. W. Jordan, G.C.

It was estimated that a further charge of causing damage to the County Geol would be laid.

A small field and he could tell it was in trouble.

"I'm scared, I'm scared, and the motor out out over the nearby woods. It would just look like a car being plowed into a tree."

"Then," says the farmer, "it went straight down."

He ran over to the wreckage but the plane burst into flame. The farmer says "I can't get to the car, it was simply out of the question."

Crown was an RCMP veteran and as inspector at the Ontario County Flying Club. He'd only taken Marshall and up for his first flight in the dual controlled machine Saturday.

Chief Appeals To Hit-Run Driver

Members of the Lindsay Police Department are currently looking for a hit and run driver who drove off after hitting a Lindsay business man's car parked on Lindsay Street. The incident occurred on Wednesday evening.

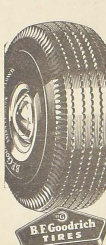

Chief Constable Arthur Webb says that a north-bound car on Lindsay Street N. crashed into the parked car, inflicting to Ken Galt, theatre manager, about $1000. This car, he says, failed to stop although damage amounting to about $100 was done to Mr. Galt's car.

The Chief observed that very often hit and run drivers are brought to ground eventually and he urges the driver of this vehicle to make haste in the Lindsay Police Report and report the incident before police catch up with him. He warns that if taken by police he will not only be liable for civil damages but will also be liable to imprisonment for failing to remain in the scene of an accident.

LINDSAY IS FORTUNATE

Lindsay is fortunate in having for its municipal headquarters a building which is so representative of the city and yet in such an excellent state of preservation. Any suggestion that this fine structure, which is a monument to skill of planning and construction, has been saved in favour of a more modern piece of architecture must certainly be looked upon with disfavor. This may be an age of streamlining and progress, but it is not an age in which we have a greater respect for those things enduring and of historical significance. It is also an age in which the importance of the past is being increasingly recognized.

Lindsay's Town Hall is something of which every citizen can be justly proud. It is a splendid building and it is the pride of the city. It is a landmark and preserved as a historic landmark which will be increasingly appreciated as the years go by.

Now this endorsement is present. Town Hall does not mean that improvements should not be made to the interior if they are going to facilitate the carrying on of the town's business. Certain changes which would probably be made to improve the interior of the town's business. Certain changes which would probably be made to improve the interior of the town's business. Certain changes which would probably be made to improve the interior of the town's business.

BRIDGE FACILITIES TRAILING HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS

During the past summer, as in many preceding summers, highway improvements have gone ahead at a great rate in this section of Ontario. It is a fact that the roads of this section of the province have never been improved in some form. Usually the improvements take the form of widening and grade reduction with extensive resurfacing. The bridges which are another, bridge facilities along these improved highways have not kept pace. There are still many antiquated old spans built to serve the old and heavy cars and trucks which are still up under modern traffic. As a matter of fact, because of these old bridges appear to be on the point of being replaced, which as long as they choose to stay, one will be injured, but it is a bad idea. At least it would speed the day when replacement would be made.

The building of improved bridges would seem to be more urgent than highway improvement in many instances and it is surprising that the latter has so far outstripped the former except, of course, if it just happens to be a case of a bridge which is in need of the highways which are being improved this year were in quite good shape before, certainly they were in better shape than many of the bridges which are in need of repair. It is therefore surprising that the bridge problem was not tackled first. At worst it seems it should have been made to keep abreast of highway improvements and not allowed to get so far out of line.

A HALF-WAY CROSSING POINT

There is probably no other main street in any Ontario town which tries the skill of pedestrian and motorist alike more than the main street of Lindsay. It is not the fact that the street is too wide or that it is of faulty construction, but rather to the fact that the distance between the intersections is so great that the pedestrian is forced to cross on a scale. In consequence anyone driving along Kent St. has to be constantly on the alert for people darting out from between parked cars into the line of traffic. The conditions would be in the interests of safety to provide pedestrian crossings midway between the main downtown intersections—one halfway between Cambridge and William and the other halfway between William and Lindsay Sts. Such an arrangement might have the effect of encouraging the public to cross at the points where the crossings are provided, and pedestrians and motorists. Telling people to cross only at intersections is not likely to have much effect when the intersections are so far apart. More concrete crossings might improve the situation and reduce jaywalking.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST HERE

Of special interest to Lindsay is the following editorial from "The Financial Times" current issue. The first line of the editorial is subject matter gathered near Lindsay while the Trade and Industry Council of the provincial governments was in session, and second because it is a good pull for the industrial development centres such as Lindsay.

Here is what "The Financial Times" has to say: FALCIES IN INDUSTRIAL LOCATION

When the Trade and Industry Council of the provincial governments met a few days ago in Ottawa, Ont., to study the progress made in industrial development and diversification, an address was given by W. M. Sharpe, associate deputy minister of the Department of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa.

Mrs. Sharpe said that the industrial location is to make which cannot but illustrate the errors that are so frequently committed by management in the location of industry.

Referring to the choice of business men and prospective investors to have correct and unbiased facts available, he stated that "a business which fails because it is based on incorrect assessment of resources and market potentialities is invariably a failure. There is growing awareness of that fact throughout Canada and those concerned with industrial development are no longer simply promoters or publicists."

OTHERS SAY

NATIONAL THANKSGIVING

To us who are fortunate enough to live in Canada, every day is a day of National Thanksgiving. But the blessings which we enjoy in such abundance have come to us so easily and are so commonplace that we are apt to regard them as a matter of course. It is well that a national proclamation sets aside one day every year on which we, as a people, can be grateful and return thanks. This year Thanksgiving falls on October 13th.

The month of October is peculiarly suitable for the giving of thanks. The harvest has been gathered in and the fields are now green. We picked the grapes and the fruit and vegetable bins are full again with the produce of field and garden and orchard. It has been a good year in a country where all the years are good.

Perhaps too, most of us are pretty well aware that it is good fortune rather than good deservings which makes us Canadians. We picked the grapes and the fruit and vegetable bins are full again with the produce of field and garden and orchard. It has been a good year in a country where all the years are good.

It is always unwise for us to believe that we are smarter or wiser or more ingenious than other people. It is always unwise for us to believe that we are smarter or wiser or more ingenious than other people. It is always unwise for us to believe that we are smarter or wiser or more ingenious than other people.

We often wonder if the Canadian who screams about the taxes he has to pay for the privilege of being a Canadian is not a little bit of a hypocrite. We often wonder if the Canadian who screams about the taxes he has to pay for the privilege of being a Canadian is not a little bit of a hypocrite.

There are many things that we can return thanks to on Thanksgiving. For the material wealth which is ours—most certainly. But for the privilege of being free men—to hold our own opinions, to vote as we see fit, to work for the things that we believe in—for these things especially, let us give thanks.

LORD ASTOR

The death of Viscount Astor at the age of seventy-three closes a career of high distinction. Though born to wealth and in successful business, Lord Astor had no inclination to the life of luxurious ease. He regarded his advantages as conferring a public responsibility and he worked hard for good causes. His services in politics and journalism were especially notable.

A mere list of Lord Astor's activities suggests a many-sided man of unusual energy. He was a member of the House of Commons at the age of thirty-one. He remained an MP until his father's death obliged him to his request, to transfer himself to the House of Lords. He was a member of the House of Commons at the age of thirty-one. He remained an MP until his father's death obliged him to his request, to transfer himself to the House of Lords.

The particular concern was in questions of public health, the national diet and agriculture. These interests remained with him. He headed the League of Nations Committee on Nutrition. He was a member of the House of Commons at the age of thirty-one. He remained an MP until his father's death obliged him to his request, to transfer himself to the House of Lords.

From his father, the first Lord Astor, he inherited the London Observer. Founded in 1791 and influential in its early years, the Observer was a paper of little consequence when it came to the hands of Lord Astor. The new proprietor and his son, choosing brilliant editorial aids, made it one of the world's greatest journals of opinion, notable for the force and candour of its editorial views, the quality of its criticism and as readers of this newspaper know, the excellence of its foreign correspondence.

Lord Astor married Nancy Langhorne of Virginia and she became one of the greatest celebrities in her own right and the first British woman MP. Together at Cliveden, their country house, they entertained all the famous politicians, writers and artists of the day. The death of Lord Astor, who was a member of the House of Commons at the age of thirty-one. He remained an MP until his father's death obliged him to his request, to transfer himself to the House of Lords.

That is one of the fallacies that "promotion and publicity" have raised almost to the level of an obvious truth. Men who are building an industry, not just to take advantage of a current vogue but for the future, men who are aware of the necessity of a growing population rather than traditional resources; and men who are aware of the necessity of a growing population rather than traditional resources; and men who are aware of the necessity of a growing population rather than traditional resources.

During World War I, an epidemic of spurge broke out in the military hospital unit and about twenty thousand soldiers were afflicted with the disease. Among the patients were their chaplains whom I happened to know.

A legend of the Scugog

Jamesville (Ont.) aged 90, a Scot, who professes no publicity, tells the story of an Indian legend, which he claims has its background, or setting around Scugog.

Jamesville was born in 1826, and lived was a settler, then there lived on the borders of the swamp and south of Lindsay and along the shores of the upper Scugog River, an old Indian of the Mississauga tribe and his two daughters.

His wife had been living in the district while crossing Lake Scugog and he was working on the swamp land south of Lindsay and along the shores of the upper Scugog River, an old Indian of the Mississauga tribe and his two daughters.

His wife had been living in the district while crossing Lake Scugog and he was working on the swamp land south of Lindsay and along the shores of the upper Scugog River, an old Indian of the Mississauga tribe and his two daughters.

...of the Mississauga, by the name who came to trade with the red men.

One day their father was struck with the fever and died, and the mother, who was with all her fortune, saw him pass to the great beyond. They sat on their bed, and the lodge and wandered into the swamp, where, according to the story, they perished.

There had been great contention among the red men in the district and the story was that every night the spirit of the Indian maiden would make their appearance in the heart of the swamp, showing dead Indian chiefs, and the women would be plainly visible in the darkness of the night.

"This is the legend as told by the elderly settler, who concluded by saying that some of the men along the front, actually believed these nightly visitations took place."

Pasture Deserves Same Care as Grain

It is well known that corn or wheat, ... and it deserves the same care.

R. M. Donaldson, Agronomist at the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa, says that the same high quality pasture herbage has been demonstrated by progressive farmers.

He says many farmers realize to use the same care for their pastures as they do for their corn or wheat. They should be used the same way that it is of poor quality.

At Ottawa's experimental farm, a pasture takes the place of an ordinary corn in a five-year rotation. It is a five-year rotation of corn, hay, pasture, and grain.

During 1951, a season of average rainfall, this pasture produced a total of 29 hundred pounds of feed per acre. This is equal to 130 bushels of oats, ... and the same food value as two tons of 14 percent dairy feed.

Donaldson says that these results could not be obtained from unimproved pasture on marginal land. He adds, there should be less distinction between pasture, hay, and grain.

He says the forage program should be planned so that the surplus can be used for hay or silage, ... and the information can be used for grain.

Fertilizer Said Not Satisfactory For PEI Potatoes

Potato farmers on Prince Edward Island have been growing tomato more and more commercial farms. They have not been using organic matter, ... such as manure.

Observation from the experimental farm at Charlottetown indicates that this practice has resulted in breaking down of the soil fertility.

To build up fertility again, manure, compost, and green manure crops are recommended. Potatoes require a lot of nitrogen, ... growing will have no manure on the farm. But green manure crops and compost can be prepared in the fall, ... day straw, potato vines, together with a chemical fertilizer, to help decompose the matter.

A project has been carried on at Charlottetown for 25 years to compare manure fertility with chemical fertilizers.

The yield of potatoes grown in a three-year rotation on chemically fertilized plots was 20 per cent below that on manured plots. During the past few years, the barley crops on the fertilizer soil have been practically a failure.

Where potatoes were grown continuously, the fertilized plots yielded 40 per cent less than the manured plots. At the end of the year-to-year test, the continuous plots produced 20 per cent less potatoes than the rotation.

From the experiments, the experimental station has drawn the conclusion. Farmers who specialize in potatoes should rotate their crops to conserve humus and help maintain soil fertility.

A combination of manure and a complete fertilizer will best yield.

Root Rot Resistant Strawberry Found

Scientists are working at the experimental station at Niagara-on-the-Lake to find a strawberry variety that will resist the disease and still produce in the heavier, wetter soils of the British Columbia coast.

Seedlings have been planted and grown for two or more seasons under soil conditions favorable for the development of root rot. These growing trials have eliminated many strawberry varieties. From some 18 thousand seedlings, only 10 selections remain. They are all to some same parent plant, called "Magoon".

"Magoon" crosses have consistently shown resistance to root rot.

Throughout this program of breeding and testing, the scientists are looking for at least one strawberry variety that is suitable for commercial production.

It is hoped that this variety will be available to growers in the near future.

Good Old Days"

What the well-dressed gal of the 1930s was wearing . . .

HIGH STEPPER — the pencil-skirt affair is a special back patent which makes it virtually wrinkle-proof and (right) at the same time enables the wearer to cavort as she likes.

The Two Piece Look Is Fashion Right

Field Day Held At Rotary Park

Preston Falls (P.F.) — Preston Falls High School held their annual field day at Rotary Park with splendid interest, being shown by the students in all events. Points were awarded to the students winning first, second and third position and the results of points won are as follows: Junior Boys' Champion — Jim Nichols, runner-up — J. Griffin; Intermediate Boys' Champion — F. Pool, runner-up — R. Worsley; D. Bury, 1st; Senior Boys' Champion — Mario Lee, runner-up — W. Griffin; Junior Girls' Champion — D. Riley, runner-up — Elaine Junkin; Intermediate Girls' Champion — J. Tidy, runner-up — J. Tidy; Anne Povey, 1st; Senior Girls' Champion — Ruth Whithead, runner-up — Blanche Yousman.

The students are now practicing for the inter-school meet which will be held in November, with Beaverton station and Preston Falls High Schools competing.

Tooth Powder — To make a good tooth powder use 4 ounces of precipitated chalk, 1 ounce of powdered myrrh, 2 ounces of powdered cork, mixing it through a fine bolting cloth.

Nestleton W.I. Party Raises $200 For Port Perry Hospital Fund

Nestleton Women's Institute held a most successful evening in Blackstock Hall in aid of the Port Perry Hospital Fund. Mrs. Madeline Easton and her committee had decorated the hall with floral decorations, and the hall was filled with music, mountain and sea and law berries, and baskets of flowers lined the front of the stage.

Twelve tables of refreshments were played on, and the evening was a success. The tables were in charge of the games. There were prize winners' lists: 1st — Mrs. Percy Van Camp, 2nd — Miss May Noon, consolation — Mrs. G. Port Perry, 3rd — Mrs. G. Port Perry, 4th — Mrs. G. Port Perry, 5th — Mrs. G. Port Perry, 6th — Mrs. G. Port Perry, 7th — Mrs. G. Port Perry, 8th — Mrs. G. Port Perry, 9th — Mrs. G. Port Perry, 10th — Mrs. G. Port Perry, 11th — Mrs. G. Port Perry, 12th — Mrs. G. Port Perry.

The students are now practicing for the inter-school meet which will be held in November, with Beaverton station and Preston Falls High Schools competing.

Mrs. Herbert Vine and Mrs. Richard Davison were in charge of the draw for the wool again made by Institute members under Mrs. Vine's direction. Mrs. Vine assisted both the backs and the finished product was a credit to her and the others who helped. Mrs. Davison also assisted greatly by selling 20 boxes of tickets on the afternoon. The 10th Miss Harris choosing Mrs. Edith Neil of Chatham as the lucky winner.

Recruitment both committees with Mrs. Harry McLaughlin, the very capable convenor, was busy all evening selling homemade pie, ice-cream, pop, hot dogs and coffee, but few waited the hot drink on such a warm evening.

Orchestra, committee, Mrs. Bruce Heston, Mrs. J. Heston and Mrs. Orant, Thompson were greatly interested in the music and the Port Perry Orchestra who supplied such splendid music free of charge. It was amazing to see no sheet music or notes used by any of the eight musicians. Mr. Donald Christie of Port Perry was "caller" for the square dance and Master of Ceremonies. The orchestra was supported by a splendid representation from Port Perry and several young ladies from Blackstock who joined in the dance and kept the program running smoothly. Misses Shirley Hamilton and Joan Vening gave a lovely demonstration of the schottische.

Winners of lucky spot dance were Miss Shirley Hamilton, Blackstock, and Mr. Donald Wallace, Port Perry. Elimination dance winners were Mrs. Leonard Clarke and Mr. Gordon Morrow, both of Port Perry. The orchestra made the selection of the Ball of the Ball and chose Miss Joan Vening, Blackstock, for this dance. Joan received a prize and a carriage of carriages, and her father, Mr. John Vening, proudly carried the special number with her. Mrs. Grant Thompson thanked the members of the orchestra, the Master of Ceremonies and all who contributed to the successful evening. Mrs. Cecil Wilson, President of Nestleton Women's Institute, announced the proceeds of $200.00. All prizes and music were donated and expenses will be very small, so the Institute girls will be reached as planned. Let us hope Port Perry Hospital is soon a reality, serving the continued township of Beach, Snoggs and Cartwright.

LET'S GET DOWN TO BUSINESS!

The report of a sewage disposal plant at the village of Lindsay has been learned with surprise by the majority of Lindsay people. The citizenry had just relaxed after the winter-long breakdown of a sewage disposal plant and were hoping that their nearly $300,000 sewage treatment plant would operate efficiently for a while at least.

Much could be written concerning this latest incident in the trouble-filled history of Lindsay's youthful sewage disposal plant but it would serve no useful purpose. It is apparent that too much laughing has been done already and now the time has come to get down to business. Lindsay has an engineer of their own now and he should be consulted concerning the operation of the sewage disposal plant. The town council is in no doubt conversant with this type of equipment and qualified to give Town Council a report on any seeming deficiencies in the plant.

Shutting to the high heavens and taking the heck when the plant breaks down isn't going to achieve anything. If Council feels that it has been misreated by the consulting engineers they should assemble some force to prove their case, then call the tune, but without facts nothing will be achieved. The town engineers can quite probably get them straight and enlighten the taxpayer who is more than a little annoyed with the way their expensive sewage plant is being kicked about.

THEY SHOULD GET TOGETHER ON THE NAMES OF THESE PLACES

There seems to be a definite trend on the part of mapmakers, the painters of highway markers and others, towards altering the names of places in Ontario and particularly in this district. Whether or not this is intentional is hard to say but it would seem that the time has come when everybody should get together on the names before they are changed.

Take for example the village of Glenora, a few miles northwest of Lindsay. For many years this settlement has gone by this name but on a highway map made not far from the village the name has been changed to read Glen Arm. Looking up a map the other day and going on a route, we happened to come across a place called from Dale. It was in the vicinity of the village of Glenora and we were familiar with it and we presumed it was one and the same place. In this instance, however, the name from Dale (two words) seems though it might be very old since it has been known to exist in the rocks surrounding the date in which the community is located. There are only one example of places whose names are in process of being altered, probably without the consent of the inhabitants and quite likely without consulting them to ascertain the settlements' correct or original names.

Sometimes a change of name is desirable and even to the community's advantage but such a change should only be made with the approval of the majority of the residents.

Good Library At Woodville

Mrs. Arnold Cumming, librarian of the Woodville Public Library, says that many new and worthwhile books have recently been added to the shelves for the enjoyment of that community.

Among these are "Adventure in Two Worlds", by Dr. A. J. Cronin; this being an exceptionally well-written book, giving a very vivid picture of his life as a doctor and an author, "The Greatest Story Ever Told", by Fulton Oursler, portrays the Biblical characters of the New Testament in a dramatic manner, leaving the reader with much to think about.

"Krisne Benson Kristofferson" is a book written by a Canadian novelist, for whom the publishers predict a great future. The story is built around a Hudson's Bay Company Post in northern Manitoba, portraying with the life and people of that lonely spot, "Jesse, the Sleight Dog", by West Lashford.

This story, of an average American boy, tells of his struggle to exist in the frozen wastes of Alaska. Jesse, the dog, takes his place in the book along with dog heroes as Kanan, White Fang and others.

"Just Mary's Green Boots" by Mary Graham is the second of the Just Mary Green series. It is her wide experience with children that gives her books that "certain something" that children like.
